French Doctor Accused of 26 Murders

Dr. Marcel Petiot, in center above, stands at the bar of trial in the Paris Assize Court, charged with murder. He is accused of having killed at least 26 persons, and claims he murdered 63. He declares his victims were enemies of France during the German occupation, but the government will seek to prove he killed for robbery. Cases in background hold clothing and jewels which, police said, were taken from his victims.

REDS LAUNCH
5-YEAR PLANRussian Parliament To Name Government Leader Tonight

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, March 19.—The Supreme Soviet, in a final session tonight, was expected to elect a head of the government of the U.S.S.R., which now has embarked officially upon a new five-year plan.

Throughout the war Generalissimo Stalin as chairman of the Council of Peoples Commissars has been head of the Soviet government. Earlier in this session the Supreme Soviet decided to change the title of the head of the government to chairman of the council of ministers, but the nature of the job remains unchanged.

Stalin became chairman of the Council of Peoples Commissars May 6, 1941 by decree of the presidium.

Goals Are Set
Russia's new plan is designed to place the nation in the forefront among the users of atomic energy and to boost industrial production to one and one-half times the pre-war level by 1950.

The plan, which was presented last Friday to the Supreme Soviet by N. A. Voznesensky, head of the State Planning Commission, was adopted unanimously yesterday by both houses of the Russian parliament.

Under the measure, annual iron production would be increased to 19,000,000 tons; steel, 25,000,000 tons; coal, 250,000,000 tons; oil, 35,000,000 tons; and electric power, 85,000,000 kilowatt hours. Expenditures for education and culture would be boosted to the equivalent of about $13,333,000,000.

Voznesensky, in sponsoring the plan, asserted that the Soviet Union would maintain and strengthen her military forces during the five-year period from 1946 to 1950.

Machinery Minister A. E. Yefremov told the council of the union of the supreme Soviet that if the aims of the plan were achieved Russia would be too powerful for any nation to overcome, even if an attack should come by surprise.

Paris Doctor Admits Certain
Killings, Denies 27 Others

By MEL MOST

PARIS, March 19.—Swarthy Dr. Marcel Petiot said today that he participated in a "certain number" of slayings, but denied taking part in any of the 27 murders for which he is on trial for his life.

Under interrogation for a second day in connection with mass killings at his house in the Rue Le-sueur, the stoop-shouldered doctor gave an animated and elaborate account of how his so-called resistance group abducted alleged Gestapo informers in the streets of Paris and killed them.

He said he killed two German motorcyclists, but his lawyers said they were not mentioned in the indictments and were irrelevant to the case.

Heated Words Exchanged
This followed a heated argument during which an attorney, defending the civil interests of the families of the victims, shouted at Petiot:

"I'll smash your face in."
The state charges Petiot participated in the robbery and murder of 27 persons who tried to escape France during the occupation. His lawyer quoted the doctor as denying this.

The lawyer, Rene Floriot, declared Petiot would stand pat on an assertion at the opening of his trial yesterday that his Paris home was used in his absence by members of the resistance movement for the "execution" of traitors.

In Petiot's home police found an assortment of gruesome remains—including partially burned human limbs and bodies submerged in a lime pit.

Petiot yesterday said the persons slain were collaborators, and that he was sane and innocent, and that he deserved France's resistance award, the Liberation Cross.

Indefinite Draft
Extension Asked
By Gen. Hershey

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Extension of the draft law for an indefinite period, with service of inductees limited to 18 months was recommended today to the house military committee by Selective Service.

The recommendation was made in a letter to Chairman May (D-Ky.) from Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director.

Immediately after its receipt, the committee voted to start hearing Thursday on legislation to extend the draft law. Army officials will be the first witnesses at the hearings, which will not be open to the public.

Selective Service officials recommended that the extension should be for an indefinite period, subject to cancellation by the President or by congress at any time.

Hershey also was reported to have recommended leaving unchanged the present age group subject to Selective Service—18 to 45 years—with an executive order limiting actual inductees to those under 27.

Some committee members, including May, have proposed a flat six-months extension with the age limits between 21 and 30, both inclusive.

VOTING IS HEAVY ON LISBON ISSUE

LISBON, March 19.—Interest seemed heavy today in the special bond issue election for Lisbon's World War Memorial stadium as approximately 200 voters had trekked to the poles in seven of eight precincts by 10 a. m., an unexpectedly large number for a special vote.

The unofficial estimates placed the expected vote today at between 800 and 1,000, considerable more than is sometimes cast at primary elections here.

The bond issue is for $50,000 to erect a football and athletic stadium for Lisbon High school as a memorial to World War I and II veterans.

Lisbon Home Looted
LISBON, March 19.—Sheriff George Hayes was today investigating the breaking and entering of the Leonard Dotson home, R. D. 4, Lisbon.

Dotson reported that someone entered through a back door and stole a battery radio, two guns, a jacket and a pair of pants.

Close Fremont Schools
FREMONT, March 19.—City schools are closed today for the duration of a scarlet fever epidemic which recently caused the death of a four-year-old boy. Health Commissioner C. E. Kuntz, who ordered the shutdown yesterday, said there were 32 cases in Sandusky county.

UMW, Mine Owners
Begin Negotiations
For New Contract

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Bituminous coal operators and the United Mine Workers began actual bargaining negotiations for a new contract today.

John L. Lewis, UMW chief, asserted just before closed wage conference sessions began, that "war" or "peace" in the industry depended on acceptance of improved mine safety provisions.

The thrashing out of a new contract was placed in the hands of a committee of seven operators and seven united mine workers.

The present contract will be terminated by Lewis at midnight March 31, according to his procedure, and he has laid the groundwork for a nationwide bituminous strike April 1 in the absence of a new agreement.

Lewis again addressed the operators, rebutting their reply to his nine general demands for 400,000 members of the United Mine Workers. He repeated what he called an "indictment" in which he accused the management and stockholders of having "made dead" 28,000 mine workers in 14 years and injuring another 1,004,000.

In that "indictment" he said "we have made two demands: For abatement of this slaughter and cessation of the accompanying extortion."

"Those are demands!" he asserted. "What do you want? Peace? Or do you prefer war?"

Will Await Reply
"We'll await your reply with interest on those issues," Lewis said coldly.

Spokesmen for the operators yesterday disputed Lewis' casualty figures, contending they did not reveal advances made in mine safety in the last 14 years.

In his "indictment" he accused the industry of making profit in some instances out of payroll deductions for medical and hospital service to miners.

How soon the closed-door negotiations will begin over nine general demands by Lewis and four counter-offers by the operators apparently depended on the United Mine Workers' boss. He still held the floor.

Lashing out at the industry's apparent rejection of his demand for a miners' health and welfare fund, Lewis asked the operators in a bitterly sarcastic speech:

"If you work after April 1 in your mines—and I suppose some of you hope to remain in business—what are you going to do about it, continue killing men, filling up the hospitals, hauling men to remote institutions?"

Strike Notice Given
Lewis already has filed a strike notice on behalf of his 400,000 soft-coal miners.

Industry spokesmen yesterday made four counter-proposals: A union guarantee against wildcat strikes and production slowdowns.

2. Redefinition of vacation pay qualifications.

3. Elimination of pay for lunch periods.

4. Substitution of eight hours for seven hours and 40 hours for 35 hours as the starting point for overtime payments.

Miners now work a maximum of six nine-hour days a week, at $10 daily and $13.50 for Saturdays.

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the operators, and Harry M. Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coke Co., a U. S. Steel subsidiary, joined in denying UMW contentions that miners receive poor medical and hospital care and are not adequately protected by mine safety measures.

IRAN FILES NEW
TROOP PROTEST

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Iran has filed a new protest with the United Nations Security Council against continued presence of Russian troops in that country, an Iranian embassy official said today.

Gholam Abbas Aram, first secretary of the embassy, told a reporter that Ambassador Hussein Ala delivered the protest to Trygve Lie, U.N. secretary general, who is now in Washington.

Ala acted on instructions received from Premier Ahmed Qavam-Es-Sultaneh in Tehran late yesterday, Aram said.

Russian troops had been scheduled to leave Iran by March 2. Instead they remained there.

Qavam last week announced his intention to take Iran's troubles to the Security Council.

GM TERMS GET
WORKERS' O. K.Ratification Is Unanimous On Agreement To End Strike

(By Associated Press)

The CIO United Auto Workers union today announced a majority of its 175,000 strikers had ratified terms for ending the General Motors strike on a national basis.

UAW Vice President Walter P. Reuther advised Harry W. Anderson, GM vice president, that sufficient votes already had been cast approving the national agreement to assure overwhelming acceptance.

Reuther also discussed the subject of local issues—which have caused continuation of the strike in at least 18 plants—but did not make public this portion of his letter to Anderson.

Majority ratifications were received in New York today between the Westinghouse Electric Corp. and the Ohio United Electrical Workers in an effort to settle a 63-day-old strike of 75,000 employees of the 52 plants in 14 states.

Fewer Are Idle
The nation's idle because of labor disputes, was today at the lowest figure in more than two months, 588,000, with further drops indicated, possibly to below 400,000.

A threatened coal strike of 400,000 miners on April 1 was the darkest cloud on the labor scene. Although John L. Lewis, president of the AFL United Mine Workers has filed a strike notice on behalf of the miners, union officials and bituminous coal operators neared actual contract negotiations.

The ranks of the idle, which in January hit a near record high of a million and a half, were further reduced today as a few of the 175,000 General Motors strikers went back to work after 119 days of idleness.

With ratification of the settlement, maintenance and foundry employees in the GM plants in Saginaw, Mich., were called back to prepare the plants for the forthcoming back-to-work call.

However, employees in at least 18 plants remained on strike over unsettled local issues, and in Flint, Mich., a mass picket line was ordered set up around the huge Buick division, the company's largest plant.

Forty-nine of the 96 GM locals have endorsed by a heavy vote the national settlement reached in Detroit last week as additional locals voted today on the settlement terms, which included an 18½ cents hourly wage increase.

Elsewhere along the labor front, no major developments were reported.

A week-old strike of 108 AFL maintenance and traffic employees of the York (Pa.) Telephone Co. ended. Union and company officials did not disclose terms of settlement. The strikers had demanded an hourly wage increase of 17½ cents.

150 Seniors, 13 Vets May Receive School Diplomas

A class of 150 students is expected to graduate from Salem High school late in May, upon satisfactory completion of the current year's studies, Principal B. G. Ludwig said today.

The present class, following an example set by the Class of 1945 has voted to don the traditional cap and gown for the graduation ceremonies and will be measured for the garments tomorrow in the High school.

Ludwig revealed that the Class of '46 rolls will be swelled by the addition of 13 veterans who have already completed their studies and who will receive diplomas along with the present class.

Several of the veterans already have indicated that they intend to take part in the graduation ceremonies.

Three other students, one a member of the armed forces, are expected to have the required credits for graduation in time to receive diplomas this year.

Although no date for graduation has been officially announced by the board of education, indications are that the event will take place in the school auditorium Friday, May 31.

Baccalaureate services have been set for Sunday, May 26.

Small Business
Airs Complaints
At Ohio Meeting

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, March 19.—Complaints against price controls, competition from tax-free co-operatives and the taxation of capital investments were voiced today as more than 200 small business men from northern Ohio placed their problems before the Ohio Small Business commission.

The commission, composed of 10 members of the Ohio general assembly and five business men appointed by Gov. Frank J. Lausche, met in Cleveland for the first time to study small business and suggest legislation to improve its position.

John W. Bush of Portsmouth, retail tire and automotive supply dealer and a member of the commission, said numerous complaints against Office of Price Administration restrictions were expressed in earlier discussions.

"Many problems presented related to federal regulations," said Bush, adding that the commission later would consider whether any steps were possible to alleviate these problems.

Some business men attending the hearing argued that taxation of capital investments stifled small business. Bush reported, and urged that the first $10,000 of such investments be made tax free.

Others discussed problems created by the expansion of cooperative enterprises and the competition they afford to taxed businesses.

In speeches preceding the hearing, Robert L. Whaley, regional business consultant of the Department of Commerce, outlined some ways in which his department aids small business, and Prof. James C. Yokum, Ohio State university, discussed federal and state reports.

Jobs For Disabled Vets.
Is Plea of USES Office

Urging more extensive employment of disabled veterans and other persons who have physical limitations, Arthur S. Johnston, manager of the Salem office of the United States Employment Service, today urged employers to list every existing job opening with the USES.

He pointed out that the USES has a listing of many available jobs, but with further cooperation of employers in supplementing the list, considerable more can be accomplished in assisting these types of applicants to secure suitable employment.

Johnston reported that 24,692 physically handicapped, including many disabled veterans were placed in employment in Ohio during 1945.

APPEALS FOR FRIENDSHIP WITH RUSSIAEspionage Extended Into
U. S., Britain, Canadian
Head Says

(By Associated Press)

OTTAWA, March 19.—Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King told parliament last night that his government was gravely concerned over Russian espionage activities which he said had extended through the dominion into the United States and Britain, but he frowned on the idea of an open break between Canada and Russia.

Voicing his belief that Generalissimo Stalin was ignorant of the espionage activities, King emphasized Canada's desire for "only the best of relations with the U.S.S.R."

A tense house heard the 90-minute address in which the prime minister reviewed the course of his government's investigation into an alleged Russian spy plot, the first finding of which was given by King himself last Feb. 15 in a public statement.

U. S., Britain Involved

He told parliament that documents seized in the espionage inquiry and accepted by the government as being of undoubted authenticity, "disclose among other things that Canada was being made a base to secure information on matters of very great and grave concern to the United States and also to Great Britain."

The prime minister said further that these documents showed "that information was being sought through agents here with respect to many matters that were of the utmost concern to Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom." He did not elaborate.

He drew a distinction between the Soviet embassy agents, who he said, had conducted the espionage, and Generalissimo Stalin and the Russian people.

King said he hoped no one in a responsible position would call for severance of diplomatic relations with Russia.

"We in Canada," he said, "want only the best of relations with the U.S.S.R., as we do with every other country, and we must not be too ready to judge until we know all the circumstances connected with the particular situation."

Highlights of Talk

King made no effort to minimize what he considered the gravity of the case itself. These were the highlights of his address:

1. He consulted immediately with President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee last fall. The public knew of these visits to Washington and London but did not know this was among the subjects discussed.

2. Announcement of the case was delayed until Feb. 15 for two main reasons:

First, not to create an atmosphere of distrust at the meetings in London, and secondly, to enable enough investigation so that as many suspects as possible among Canadian accomplices could be caught.

3. Igor Gouzenko, former cipher clerk in the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, touched off the inquiry by turning over many documents. Gouzenko feared for his life and that of his wife and child, and protection was given.

4. Gouzenko "claimed that what was being created in Canada was a fifth column, and that it was being created through Russian agents in contact with members of the public service and others in this country, and that it had extended very far."

5. The Soviet espionage began in 1943 and thus could not have been a result of the fact that Russia was denied secrets of the atomic bomb.

One Crisis After Another

The President of the United States, now approaching the first anniversary of his duty of dealing with one crisis after another, ducked a chance to pity himself in his latest press conference and said, instead, he didn't think the current international crisis is as serious as some of his countrymen seem to believe it is.

Coming from Mr. Truman at this time such a remark is worth taking apart to see what makes it tick. This is not the first time that Mr. Truman has soft-pedaled the crisis fixation that seems to have the United States in its grip. There are signs that he makes a distinction in his thinking between a problem and a crisis—and if he continues to do this and to get the idea into general circulation a tremendous thing would have been accomplished.

The current problem in international relations, which is to find terms for bringing governments and their peoples together for their common security, may be a genuine crisis, but probably it isn't. Probably it is only a routine problem that could have been anticipated by anyone aware of the inevitable difficulties of reaching workable agreements after the end of the war. The apparent reason why the problem appears to be a crisis to so many of us is our failure to be prepared to take it in our stride.

There has grown up among us a curious notion that everything which goes contrary to our fondest hopes or turns out less than perfect is somehow by that token a crisis and a crossroads. This questionable manner of looking at problems has been encouraged by the government habit of viewing all routine problems as major problems, all major problems as emergencies and all emergencies as crises. The effect has been to depreciate the value of the terms.

The United States has had, to be sure, more than one crisis recently. It had a bona fide crisis when a combination of unscrupulous politics and fumbling economics destroyed public confidence in the early part of the last decade. There was a genuine crisis when this country was forced to fight two major wars at extreme range simultaneously. But in the sense that a crisis is a climax—an instant of decision when everything hangs in the balance—most of the other events that people have called crises have been at worst no more than problems.

In its war-on position as the nation holding the balance of power, the United States is destined to have an endless succession of problems. As Mr. Truman has been learning, they come on such a frequent schedule that it is hard to keep track of them. Because he has been forced to develop a philosophy for dealing with them to keep a semblance of mental balance, he shows promise of helping all of us to buckle down a little more gracefully to our responsibilities.

There are many problems. They concern things at home and abroad. They tempt all of us, and particularly those with some special interest, to start yelling that the dam has broken and everybody should run for the hills. But it is obvious that running for the hills should be saved for the real thing. In the meantime, Mr. Truman has a better idea, which is to forge the bad habit of indulging our worst fears on a daily schedule.

Any Scrap Steel, Mister?

CPA, which in this case does not stand for certified public accountant but for Civilian Production Administration, has asked the country to collect 2,000,000 tons of iron and steel scrap in the next half year to meet needs for housing and production of consumer goods.

This scrap must be collected in the United States, the agency explains, because the flow of battlefield scrap metal that was expected to materialize is not going to materialize. But it does not explain why. Nor does it explain why hundreds of thousands of tons of scrap are going to be sent to the bottom of the ocean in atomic bomb tests, instead of being saved for manufacture of steel. It is not CPA's job to explain why and therefore, but to round up enough scrap metal to give steel mills an assured supply.

Meanwhile the fact is that the United States seriously has depleted its available reserves of not only processed metals but original sources and apparently is about to write them off as a net loss. Remembering the wartime scrap drives, when everything depended on keeping steel mills supplied with the wherewithal to do their part in a war of production, many of us are wondering what could be more important at this time than to bring back every ton of iron and steel that can be rounded up overseas. It was, it is and increasingly will be an invaluable national asset.

As Advertised

An advertising campaign to familiarize the public with the honorable discharge insignia of demobilized service got under way about six months ago and continued until early this year. By then, advertisements no longer were needed. Everybody had seen the insignia many times and knew what it meant.

It is pleasant to recall that the advertising stressed the theme that the insignia was a "badge of distinction". The public, it was pointed out, would look at its wearers with the respect due those who had served the nation in one of its finest hours.

It is pleasant to recall, also, that some doubted if any considerable number of veterans would wear the buttons—pleasant because a very large number of veterans now are wearing their honorable discharge insignia and it is doing what was claimed for it.

It is setting the wearers apart from all others. It is noticed with respect. It is an invitation to other discharged service men to ask questions and get acquainted. It is an excuse for many of us who did nothing in the war besides our ordinary civilian jobs to express the admiration we tried to project across the oceans by mental telepathy while the war was being fought.

Not everything since the end of the war has turned out as advertised. The honorable discharge insignia is coming up to expectations. It is helping former service men to know that they earned something that cannot be measured in money—the respect of those they served well.

Only Fair

American delegates to the international monetary conference in Savannah ran into British opposition when they suggested that the president of the World Bank and the managing director of the World Fund should get annual salaries of $50,000. The British favored lower pay.

We support the American view. Since this important banking institution is to be located in this country, the bosses should at least be on an economic par with our big league baseball players and bush league radio crooners.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, March 20.

WHILE the sidereal operations are for promising and encouraging opportunities for wide scope and expansive development, with much urge to reach out for high goals and important objectives, yet such benign conditions may be negated or defeated definitely by a disposition to wrangle, tear things apart or other unwise and injudicious manipulation. There may be difficult situations, with contradictions and complications, calling for sound logic and shrewd tactics. In these, advice of influential persons may advance best interests.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which important issues are at stake, with promise of expansive growth in major operations, increase of resources, credit, funds and personal prestige. However, these may be offset by a tendency to pull two ways and not constructively, but with wrangling, faulty vision and stubborn resistance to obstacles, best managed by compromise, good nature and sound logic, not rancor, prejudice or enmity.

A child born on this day will have high ambitions, with opportunity in life, but it may defeat itself by bad judgment, ill-will and a tearing apart rather than pulling toward advanced goals.

Knowledge of Vitamins in Disease Fight

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

KNOWLEDGE of vitamins is getting beyond the ABC stage.

Most of them have real names now and we know many, many things about them that were not dreamed of earlier.

Not so long ago, it was believed that the only signs of vitamin lack were the development of actual and terrible diseases, diseases such as beriberi, due to lack of vitamin B-1; scurvy, due to vitamin C deficiency; rickets, developing because of insufficient vitamin D.

More Widespread

Now, we know that vitamin-lacks are much more widespread than is shown by the development of these diseases, and that these lacks can show up in apparently normal individuals in disorders such as increased susceptibility to colds, decrease in vitality and, even in faulty eyesight.

Furthermore, we now understand that vitamin deficiencies develop under many conditions besides poverty and ignorance. A nation does not have to be devastated by war for its people to suffer from hidden vitamin hungers.

Food Preparation

The faulty preserving of foods and improper preparations may destroy certain of the vitamins. Also, disorders of the stomach and bowel may cause persons to eat foods that do not supply enough vitamins, or those disorders may keep the vitamins from being taken up into the body.

The chronic alcoholic may forget to eat. The person with poor appetite may not eat enough. There may be a lack of secretions such as those in the stomach, or some disturbance of the bile which keeps vitamins from being absorbed.

Foods may move through the intestinal tract so rapidly because of diarrhea that there is no opportunity for food materials to be taken up into the body.

Some types of chronic liver disease may interfere with the storage of the vitamins and then, at certain times of life such as pregnancy, in women who are breastfeeding a baby, or in those who are putting forth unaccustomed physical exertion, there may be a need for an extra quantity of vitamins.

Recognized Vitamins

Not only have we learned all these facts about the causes of vitamin deficiency but more and more vitamins have been recognized.

There are vitamins A, D, E, and K, which are soluble in fat, vitamin B-complex, which are soluble in water. We do not know as yet what a deficiency of these parts of the B-complex may lead to.

For example, there is still no definite evidence of the part that pyridoxine, pantothenic acid, choline inositol and biotin play in the human body.

People in general can rely on the foods they eat to supply them with the vitamins they require. However, when deficiencies actually do exist, our knowledge is now such that the physician can prescribe the proper vitamin preparations to overcome quickly the difficulty that is present.

Letters to Dr. Bundesen should be addressed in care of 235 E. 45th st., New York City.

Paris' Modern Bluebeard Charged With 63 Murders

PARIS, March 19.—Black-bearded Dr. Marcel Petiot, charged with murdering perhaps as many as 63 persons, went on trial in a Paris court today.

The 55-year-old beetle-browed little physician is charged with luring his alleged victims to his home, a large house behind a 20-foot wall, with promises of helping them to escape from Nazi-occupied France in return for a fee.

A miscellany of human remains, including partially burned limbs and bodies contorted in a lime pit, were found by police summoned two years ago to the home by neighbors, who complained of thick, malodorous smoke. The smoke was found to be coming from a white-hot furnace in which human remains were later discovered.

Thirty-nine valises containing 97 petticoats, 57 pairs of socks, 97 shirts and other clothes were found at another house.

UNRRA FACING FOOD PROBLEM

Poise Question: Should Aid Go To Allies In Place of Axis?

(By Associated Press)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 18.—A desperate shortage of food in a hungry world posed for UNRRA today its major immediate problem—whether to recommend sharp curtailment of relief aid to Japan and Germany in order to give preference to Allied liberated lands.

The issue was flung into the fourth council of the international relief organization by Sir Carl Beardsley, New Zealand delegate, who argued that first right to available resources should go to the victims of Axis aggression.

Emergence of the question gave significance to the mission of Hoover to Europe on a sur-food needs.

Meanwhile, the organization set aside plans for the opening of a relief fund for the whole question of food needs, with a move developing behind the scenes to call upon Russia for a substantial contribution of grain to eastern Europe.

This stemmed from the disclosure that Russia is planning to ship 500,000 tons of wheat and barley to France.

Delegates weighed privately also the question of how best to continue the organization's relief functions after the expiration, the end of 1946 in Europe; the end of June in Asia.

Your GI Rights

Questions and Answers On Problems of the Servicemen

WASHINGTON—Here are some questions from veterans regarding their job rights:

Q. Before I went into the Navy I worked in a small box factory in my home town. During the war the man who owned the plant merged with another outfit to make cartridge cases. I understand they will soon begin making boxes again. Do I have a right to my old job?

A. Yours might be a borderline case depending on several circumstances. If it is an entirely different company now from the one you left, the chances are you don't have a legal right to your old job. The thing for you to do is take your case to the local Selective Service board.

Q. I have informed my former employer that I want my old job back. But I want to look around for awhile to see if I can line up anything better. He wants me to start immediately and says if I don't I won't have a legal claim to the job. Is he right?

A. As long as you are willing to go back to work within 90 days after your discharge you have a legal right to your job if the other conditions are met.

Q. I worked for the state government before I was drafted. When I returned recently to get my old job back they told me it wasn't open, but offered me another which, in my opinion isn't as good and offers less opportunity. Isn't the state bound by law to give me my old job back with full seniority, pay and the rest?

A. No. The federal government can't pass laws imposing its will on the States in this fashion. Most States themselves, however, have made provisions to see that veterans get a square deal when they return. Counties and municipalities are also exempt as employers from the federal laws governing veterans' job rights.

Potter-Viking Clash Will Open '46 'A' Finals

By HAROLD HARRISON
Ohio A. P. Sports Editor
COLUMBUS, March 19—A team which barely missed a perfect season and one which apparently just found its stride at tournament time will provide the entertainment Friday for the opening of the final Class "A" high school basketball tournament at Toledo.

Off their season records, East Liverpool's Potters would have to be rated favorites to advance to the championship game but it's an old basketball axiom that a team which reaches its peak at tournament time is tough to beat—and that seems to apply to Akron North's Vikings.

East Liverpool will move into Toledo with a record of 23 victories in 26 games. All three defeats were by a margin of one-point. Weirton (W-Va.) edged out the Potters, 31 to 30, in their fourth game of the season. New Philadelphia was the next to stop East Liverpool, doing it 25 to 25, and that, incidentally, was the only time this season the Potters have scored less than 30 points in a game. Salem had one of its hot nights a couple of weeks later and took a 38 to 37 decision.

Prior to the start of tournament play, however, Akron North's record was nothing to write home about. The Vikings were beaten in six of their 15 regularly scheduled enagements, but since the team began playing for the blue chips it never has been threatened seriously.

At the start of the season, East Liverpool's hopes were more high. The team had been riddled by graduation and Coach Don Oden, starting his second year with the Potters, had a big rebuilding job. Sparked by James Harris, a veteran guard, the Potters started fast, however, and never let up.

Harris, standing only five-feet, eight inches tall, turned out to be one of the hottest players in Ohio High school ranks this year. He led the team in scoring and played brilliant defensive ball to win a place on the Associated Press All-Ohio team.

He and Middletown's Paul Lansaw probably will be the marked players in this week's tournament.

Bill Cain and Jerry Hyder, both at five-foot 11 inches, do most of the forward duties with six-foot, one-inch Walter Ashbaugh at center. Charles Means, a five-foot, 10-inch lad, is Harris' running mate at guard. Hyder and Ashbaugh are Juniors and the others are Seniors.

There will be little to choose between the two teams as far as height is concerned. James Smithy and Verne Petrie, Akron North's starting forwards, are five-foot, 10 inches, and five-feet, five inches, respectively. Center Joe Vatalro is five-feet, 11-inches. Robert Sadowski at six-feet, one-inch and Carmen Ciccarelli at six-feet, two-inches, are the starting guards.

Sadowski is a brother of Ed Sadowski, former Notre Dame star and now a member of the Fort Wayne (Ind.) Zollner Pistons pro team. All of Akron's starters are Seniors except Petrie. He's a Junior.

Coaching Akron North is Bob White, who received his collegiate education at Western Michigan state. His first eight players have exceptional speed and rely heavily on push shots.

North also is one of two former state champions in the final field. The Vikings have been to the state finals on four previous occasions and won the championship in 1935 and 1939. They were runners-up in 1937.

This will be East Liverpool's third trip to the state finals but its first since 1923.

It's a long haul from either Akron or East Liverpool to Toledo but plenty of the fans are going to make the trip. When East Liverpool officials picked up their 600 tickets Sunday, one of them remarked:

"We could use this many more if we could get them."

Boy, 9, Stars In Target Practice

The Salem Revolver and Pistol club's shoot last night at the city garage was featured by some creditable firing by nine-year-old Martin Lutsch, Jr. who registered a 162 and 180 while firing from a distance of 40 feet.

Club members fired six matches last night with all but match No. 5 being fired from the 40-foot mark. Omar Rinehart, Barney Croup, R. E. Greenawalt, Grant Dick, Paul Gotschall and W. Huffman participated in that match, blazing at targets 50 feet away.

Huffman's 265 of a possible 300 took high honors while Dick was only five points behind with a 261.

Out Of Navy, Third Sack Specialist Needed Badly

(By Associated Press)
CLEARWATER, Fla., March 19.—The Cleveland Indians' hopes for a contending position in the power-packed 1946 American league race soared today with the news that Ken Keltner, star third baseman, had been released from the Navy.

Keltner, ranked by most experts as one of the leading hot corner guards in the league, informed Tribe Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh late yesterday from his home in Milwaukee that he had been released from service.

The stellar third-sacker dropped a fly in the Indians' spring training, however, by declaring he would not report for duty until a new salary agreement was offered.

Peckinpaugh said another telephone talk was scheduled today with Keltner, who asserted he was unwilling to play for the same terms he received in 1944, his last wartime season.

Keltner, reportedly one of the highest salaried players on the Tribe's roster in 1944, entered the Navy last spring and played with Great Lakes, Alameda, Cal., and Hawaiian Naval teams.

Would Settle Third
Manager Lou Boudreau previously said Keltner's return would eliminate further competition for the Tribe's regular third base post.

Three positions on the Indians' regular infield already have been settled with Keltner at third, Boudreau at shortstop and Les Fleming at first. The only remaining battle for the quartet of positions is between Dutch Meyer, a hard-hitter, and Ray Mack, a flashy fielder, for second base.

Pete Center, Winslow Stroupe and Allie Reynolds take the mound today in an exhibition tilt with the Detroit Tigers. A scheduled contest with the New York Yankees was cancelled yesterday because of rain.

Coach Begala, former Struthers High athlete, who was recently discharged after four years' service in the Navy, gave a very interesting account of how sports training in high school had greatly aided in the training and conditioning of men in the armed services.

Begala is a former professional football player and has been in the coaching business for 18 years, returning to the athletic department of Kent State university following his discharge from the service.

Truman Asks U. S. Strive To Perfect United Nations Plan

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 19.—President Truman told congress today the United States must seek to perfect the United Nations charter or betray the trust "of those who fought" for lasting peace and security.

In a report on the activities of the United States delegation to the recent UNO meeting in London, the President said:

"The United States supports the charter. The United States supports the fullest implementation of the principles of the charter. The United States seeks to achieve the purposes of the charter. And the United States seeks to perfect the charter as experience lights the way."

"To do less than our utmost in this essential effort of peace-loving nations, whatever may be the obstacles and difficulties, would be a betrayal of the trust of those who fought to win the opportunity to have a world at last with peace and security and well-being for all."

"To do our utmost will be to give new and full expression to the meaning of 'America to the world.'"
